

The Second Part.
Containing the Tragedie of Richard Duke of Yorke, and the good King Henrie the Sixt.

Enter Richard Duke of Yorke, the Earle of Warwicke, the Duke of Norfolke, Marquesse Mountague, Edward Earle of March, then Crooke backe Richard, and the young Earle of Rutland, with drum and souldiers, with white Roses in their hats.

Wonder how the King escap'd our hands.
Yorke. Whilst we pursu'd the horsemen of the North,
He silyly stole away and left his men:
Whereat the great Lord of Northumberland,
Whose warlike eares could neuer brooke retreat,

Charg'd our maine battels front, and there with him
Lord Stafford and Lord Clifford all abreast
Brake in, and were by th' hands of common souldiers slaine.
Edward. Lord Staffords Father, Duke of Buckingham,
Is either slaine or wounded dangerously,
